NARRATIVE STATEMENT

Leading Media Group Corp.'s Employment Units seek to maintain the diversity of their staff. The Employment Units are small, and job openings have been few and infrequent in recent years. As a result, its pool of potential employees is limited and the Employment Units work, within that limited pool of potential employees, to recruit and maintain a diversified workforce.

The Employment Units post positions internally at its Stations, advertise on-air for job opportunities, and work with educational institutions to interest young graduates to work in radio broadcasting.

The principal effort for promoting the Employment Units has been to participate actively in programs in local educational and community institutions, where it can inform the community as to broadcasting and careers in broadcasting. The Employment Units believe that, in doing so, they can establish their reputation among the community, and especially its younger members, and secure a pool of potential employment candidates should positions open on its staff in the future as well as being recognized as a respected employer in the communities it has long served.

The Employment Units also recognize the importance of career advancement on the part of their existing staff. To that end, the Employment Units work diligently to train and promote staff and seek to educate employees in current best practices of the radio broadcasting industry. The Employment Units await future openings on its staff when it can put into place its outreach efforts.
